

The Festival

From its inaugural event in September 2005, the Gower Bluegrass Festival has been a catalyst of innovation for the music. From its humble roots as a get together for musicians and singers followed by a concert, Gower Bluegrass is now host to a range of activities throughout the year including regular picking sessions & workshops. This year we welcome to Valerie Smith & Liberty Pike from the USA, a major force on the world Bluegrass scene. We also feature our friends from the North East, The Often Herd who recently were winners of the Best Band contest at La Roche Bluegrass Festival in France. The Rosellys from Bristol also make their Gower debut playing self penned material, a fine Americana act.

Sessions & Workshops

Bluegrass enthusiasts have opportunities to take part in open picking sessions and participate in instrumental workshops. Practice for all abilities in a friendly environment. Whether you're a singer or never held an instrument in your life, we're open to everyone and would be glad to have you come along. We can even lend you an instrument!

The festival organisers would like to thank:-

Roy & Helen Church, Sarah, Ritchie Saunders
Justin & all the Staff at Gower Heritage Centre .

The festival was established with the aim to promote bluegrass music in the South Wales area. Long may it continue

Many thanks for your continued support!
